Yuen Hong has a particular soft spot for tropical architecture and is presently developing and refining his own contemporary tropical language. He often refers in jest to his residential projects as modern kampung houses. One of these re-interpretation of a kampung house, 6 Sunset Place was awarded the 8th SIA Architectural Design Awards for the Individual Houses category in 2006.

Yuen Hong's love for materials and craftsmanship is often evident in his body of work where mundane materials such as rusty steel take on a new lease of life. His projects are meticulously detailed and thought through. Problem areas and limitations are seen as avenues for him to stretch his creative prowess.
